

SALT LAKE EATS OFF THE WORLD

Is Fed by All Sections of the United States.

WHERE FOOD COMES FROM

GOOD THINGS REPRESENT MANY MILES OF TRAVEL.

Did you ever stop to think where your food comes from—where your next meal is coming from? It doubtless never occurred to many Salt Lakeers that the good things of life that daily come and go on their tables represent nearly every section of the United States and several foreign countries.

Of course nearly every one associates New York and Baltimore with oysters, Oregon with apples, and so on. There are a few standards which are common property. But there are many which are known only to those who are associated in some way with wholesale or retail produce markets.

For instance, last Thanksgiving's dinner meant thousands of miles of travel on the part of the good things that burdened the table. Where was that turkey's career cut short? Where did the cranberry sauce "grow"? Where were the bananas and lobsters before they lost their green hue, the one in the process of ripening en route, the other by way of proper introduction to the table?

Queries might be made with regard to many other eatables—and drinkables—that appeared on the average Salt Lake table Thanksgiving day. Below will be found some of the answers to these queries given in an interview by well known Salt Lake wholesalers, whose business is probably the most extensive in Utah.

East Helps Out On Turkey.

According to this dealer, Utah's turkeys proved amply sufficient to supply all Salt Lake's needs for Thanksgiving. Speaking along turkey lines, he said:

"Thanksgiving has just about cleaned out the Utah turkey market, and Christmas and New Year's will see us shipping from the east. Most of the turkeys, and there will be thousands of them, will come from the corn belt of Kansas, where some of the best in the world are raised.

"While there are large turkey ranches in California in the Sacramento valley, the coast demand more than equals the supply. This year has been a good one for turkey raisers."

Of the necessary accompaniment to turkey—name not necessary—he said:

"New Jersey is, of course, hardly less famous for cranberries than for mosquitoes. This year she put out an exceedingly fine crop of the former.

"An eastern paper of recent date says that more cranberries will be used in the country this year than ever before, and adds that 'the good, old-fashioned mince pie' has taken a back seat for the less complicated cranberry."

All local retailers report heavy sales.

California to Fore.

California has no small share of the honors in supplying Salt Lake homes with things to eat, both the necessities and the more nearly luxuries of life. Not only does she come in with a heavy fruit list, including oranges, lemons, grapes, olives, etc., but she supplies Utah with sweet potatoes and with all kinds of shell fish. Fresh fish of every variety comes from Sacramento as well as from Seattle, Wash., in great quantities.

New York and Texas send nearly all the oysters consumed in Salt Lake. New York supplies better bivalves than Baltimore.

Commenting on the fact that California has usurped the lemon and orange market to a great extent in the United States, the wholesaler said:

"It has only been within the past few years that people have come to realize that nowhere in the world are better lemons raised than in California. Formerly lemons were not thought worth using unless they came from the old country. It was the same way with oranges.

"Now, however, there is scarcely an importation in this line made by wholesalers in this country, save in a few places in the east. There, they claim that to ship from California means less profit because of high freight rates.

"It is interesting to note in this connection that with the opening of the Salt Lake route, Los Angeles, with her tropical fruits, will be brought many miles near Salt Lake and the east.

"Most of the apples consumed in Salt Lake we obtain from Idaho, Oregon and Colorado. Few come from Utah growers. The trouble with Utah farmers is that they do not know how to pack their apples properly. Instead of having them laid out in tiers as do growers in other states, they pile them in boxes any way mixing good and bad with indifferent. When we sell apples to retailers we must give them an article that has been carefully packed and selected, and we cannot do this at the present, at least, with Utah apples.

All the Way From Arabia.

"Our bananas nearly all come from Honduras, Central America. On the coast many wholesalers import from Honolulu with profit, but seemingly there is nothing in them when sent this far. Dates and figs come from Arabia just as they are packed at shipping points."

So the list might go on indefinitely. Creamery products of course are supplied by home dairies and manufacturers. Utah's egg demand, however, sometimes is far in excess of her supply. This is now the case. Eastern eggs are being shipped to Salt Lake to meet the shortage.

Meats are shipped almost without exception from eastern points. Omaha is probably the great shipping point for the far west. Much of the smoked fish that flaps from hoops about grocery stores comes from Portland, Me.

CONVICTS PARDONED.

(Special to The Herald.)

Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 26.—Governor Chatterton has issued pardons to two convicts who are in failing health and who would not live long in confinement. They are Henry Gramann, sentenced from Fremont county, in January, 1903, to three years, for grand larceny, and G. W. Izard, sentenced from Converse county in September, 1905, to four years, for robbery.

ENDICOTT'S REPORT.

Washington, Nov. 26.—Rear Admiral Mordcaid T. Endicott, chief of the bureau of yards and docks, has submitted to the secretary of the navy his annual report and estimates. The secretary has approved them. The report contains no estimates that were not included in the approved naval estimates recently announced. Explanations of these estimates are given in each instance.

SYMPATHY OF THE JEWS.

Kishineff, Bessarabia, Nov. 26.—The Jews of Kishineff and other parts of Bessarabia tendered a reception in the synagogue here today to Prince Ourousoff, on the occasion of the latter's departure to assume the governorship of Tver, and presented him with an address and a Bible. The prince, who was greatly touched, expressed deep respect for this mark of sympathy from the Jews.

PICTURE 'PHONES NOT PRACTICAL

Views of Local Telephone Managers on Invention.

"MERE TOY," SAYS JONES

HOW THE NEW DEVICE IS SAID TO WORK.

Managers of the two local telephone companies are losing no opportunities to put their patrons in possession of practical improvements that come upon the market.

Articles are appearing from time to time in newspapers, both east and west, about new electrical inventions that are designed to revolutionize telephoning and telegraphing, but these devices and contrivances seem to be as yet largely in the domain of the theoretical. Of this character is the Fowler photophone, the inventor of which is a resident of Portland, Ore. It is claimed that he has almost perfected his invention, and that it will be put upon the market in a short time. It is also asserted that it cannot fail to come into universal use.

According to the published descriptions, there is a mirror arrangement connected with the receiver that enables each party to the conversation to see the other, no matter how many miles apart they may be. This is supposed to be so desirable a feature of telephoning that it will prove irresistible, especially to the feminine part of the population, and in my millions of the new instruments will be needed to meet public demand. A telephonic contrivance invented in Germany is said to go still further and take instantaneous photographs of the talker and tallee. Then there is still another contrivance that is alleged to transform the spoken words into written speech on a tablet enclosed in a box that can be opened with only one key that should be in the possession of the person who is to receive the message.

The managers of the two telephone systems in this city were interviewed for the purpose of ascertaining if it was intended by them to install the Fowler photophone in their territory, and whether they considered the device practicable.

"No experiments have been made in the territory of the Rocky Mountain Bell company with the Fowler photophone," said Manager D. S. Murray. "I know nothing about it except what I have read in some of the newspapers. These accounts did not impress me, and I have doubts about its utility for public service."

Elmer B. Jones, managing director of the Utah Independent Telephone company, said: "I have read about the Fowler photophone, but I have given it no serious consideration. It does not seem to me to have any value for public use. It may show the persons at each end of the wire in the mirrors for a short distance, but I don't believe it can be used for long-distance conversation, and unless it can be it is but little more than a toy."

APPEAL TO ROOSEVELT

Help Wanted For Starving Campos Indians in Southern California.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 26.—A telegram signed by many prominent men of Los Angeles, including bankers, lawyers, merchants, journalists and other officials, has been sent to President Roosevelt, asking him to cause some action to be taken in behalf of the starving Campos Indians in San Diego.

San Diego, Cal., Nov. 26.—The destitution of nearly all of the remaining Indians on the five reservations near camp, in the southeastern part of this county, is well authenticated. The Indians have been starving and suffering greatly because of lack of clothing. Efforts have been made in this city for their relief and food and clothing for immediate necessities have been forwarded. Part of the money realized here will be spent in the purchase of grain for seed for next year's crops.

MODIFIED ITS ORDER

Colorado Supreme Court Will Allow Votes to Be Counted For Roosevelt.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 26.—The state supreme court today denied a motion of the attorneys of the Republican party to increase the bail of election officials accused of contempt of court from $1,500 to $25,000.

The court modified its order restraining the Denver elections commission as a canvassing board from issuing certificates of election pending a decision on the question of throwing out the ballots of certain Denver precincts so as to allow the certifying of the vote for presidential electors and congressmen. A petition of the Denver elections commission which is canvassing the vote of this county to be allowed to correct evident mistakes in the poll books was denied.

The commission is required by the court's orders to accept the written returns of the election judges even when they are at variance with the tallies.

REMANDED TO JAIL.

London, Nov. 26.—James Wallace, alias James Wilson, who was arrested at Liverpool, Nov. 24, charged with stealing stock certificates to the value of $25,000 from Edward Breitung, a banker of Marquette, Mich., was remanded at Bow Street police court today to await the arrival of witnesses. His attorney said Wallace was anxious to return to the United States at the earliest possible moment.

STEAMERS FOGBOUND.

Liverpool, Nov. 26.—Shipping in the Mersey is practically at a standstill owing to a dense fog. The White Star liner Oymir from Boston, the Allan liner Tunisian from Montreal and other trans-Atlantic liners are fogbound outside the bar.

COMES FOR A BRIDE.

New York, Nov. 26.—Major Colin Campbell, a member of the staff of Lord Curzon, viceroy of India, arrived here today on the steamer Philadelphia from Southampton.
